To Whom It May Concern:

We retained the services of Brent Bressler and Bressler Ventures for a regional business search. The search was presented to Bressler Ventures with quite precise criteria and within a specific industrial niche. While a search of this type can prove extremely difficult, we were very determined not to stray too far from the business model that we had in mind.

To Brent's credit, he accepted the search plan and stuck with it. He never wavered by trying to show us businesses we did not want to see, backing off of the initial plan, or trying to steer us in another direction. His patience in working through the various alternatives and interminable roadblocks was an excellent support mechanism to finally securing a deal and closing.

Regardless of the professional services being sought, these are key attributes to search for in any successful business relationship.

His attention to detail and follow-up were instrumental in finally securing the business purchase. Call-backs and requests for information were handled promptly and courteously by both Brent and his office; not once in a very lengthy process were we ever waiting on actions or information from them.

Not only are we happy to serve as a reference for Bressler Ventures, but we also hope to secure their services again in the future.

Sincerely,
